Forecast for Sunday 13 Sep 2020

Weather: Rain expected in the morning, heaviest and most persistent across Argyll and Lochaber. Turning drier across Arran and southern Kintyre by late morning, this drier weather extending across the north through the afternoon. Some afternoon sunshine expected across Arran and Kintyre but low cloud lingering elsewhere.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 800m: Little chance across most ranges, extensive low cloud between 450 and 650 metres. However some breaks developing across southern Kintyre and Arran by the afternoon with bases rising to 750 metres or above. Chance of some breaks across the Campsie Fells by early evening.

Visibility: Poor in rain, otherwise hazy in the north. Good in the clearer south.
